

ENVS 680
Doing a Summer Internship

You can do your actual internship during the summer and take the internship course, ENVS 680, the following fall. However, you need to do certain homework assignments for the internship course during the summer.

- You must get a signed work agreement from your supervisor.
- You must keep a log/journal – ultimately a total of 8 pages, single spaced, total length.
- If your internship ends during the summer you should have your supervisor complete an evaluation of your work.

See the “Information about the course” link on the ENVS 680 webpage on the ENVS website for course information including a draft work agreement form, supervisor’s evaluation form and details on the log/journal assignment.
