Modern American History

Course Description

As a survey course of modern American history, History 121 provides students with an overview of the 20th century – a period in which the United States of America emerged as a great world power. The course is divided into three historical periods: the Progressive Era, the Modern Era, and the Cold War Era in order to better examine the social, political, and diplomatic changes the American people have experienced over the past century. Although this course relies on secondary source materials to relate the standard historical narrative of modern 20th century America, the students will evaluate critical primary sources that focus on a major sub-theme of the course: the immigrant/migrant experience in U.S. history.

Student Learning Objectives

The student will:

1. Demonstrate a historical understanding of three eras in 20th century American history, so that s/he can assess how several international conflicts (WWI, WWII, and the Cold War/Vietnam War) have influenced the course of 20th century American history.
2. Identify major dates or turning-points, events, people, and historical trends in each of these historical epochs, so that s/he can comprehend somewhat his/her own personal location in our national history.
3. Evaluate the impact of two important immigration periods in American history – the Industrial Immigration of the late 19th century and the Postwar Immigration of the 1960s – and associate these national events to their own family immigrant/migrant story.

Explanation of Class Assignments

Quizzes: There will be six quizzes on secondary source reading material and class lecture topics, approximately every other week. The quizzes are designed to test the students' comprehension of basic historical facts. At the end of the semester, two of the lowest quiz scores will be dropped to get the highest percentage (or points) possible – that is, the four highest grades will determine your final grade. Quizzes constitute 30% of the total grade.

Book Reports/Book Talks on Primary Sources: Three classes will be devoted to analyzing primary sources for each historical period.

Progressive Era: Jacob Riis' How the Other Half Lives

Modern Era: The Sacco and Vanzetti Case

Cold War Era: César Cházev

For Maximum Credit: The student will complete a typed Book Report Form (see format for Book Reports posted on Blackboard) to demonstrate his/her preparation for a Book Talk. The student's completed Book Report Form will entitle the student to receive 5 points for participating in the class discussion. The Book Report (worth up to 5 points) will be evaluated for its quality and comprehensiveness.

For Partial Credit: The student can still receive some credit for each of these assignments if s/he has not fully completed the assignment in time for the Book Talk in the following ways:

1) You can get 2.5 points for coming to the class discussion, without a Book Report Form. Make sure I know that you are there the day of the class discussion. You can receive up to 5 more points if you turn in a completed Book Report Form no later than one class period after the scheduled Book Talk day.

2) If you miss a Book Talk class for any reason, you can still turn in a Book Report Form – no later than the next class meeting – and receive up to 5 points based on the Book Report's quality and comprehensiveness.

Warning: If you miss a Book Talk class you will automatically lose 5 points - no exceptions. Each Book Report Form/Book Talk is worth 10 points each or 30% of the total class grade.

Midterm/Final Essay Exams: A midterm and final exam study guide will be posted on Blackboard. The midterm consists of essay questions from the Progressive and Modern Period, 1890-1930s. The final consists of essay questions from the Cold War Era, 1945-1989. At the time of the exam, the student will be given only one question from the study guide to write one in-class essay. Remember: Bring a bluebook for your essay.

The midterm and final are worth 20 points each. Your essay will be evaluated on the development of a clear thesis statement, a well-developed argument (including several topic sentences and paragraphs) supported by dates, facts and names of influential persons and institutions, and a conclusion.

Missed Midterms: If you miss the midterm for any reason, you can make it up at the time of the final exam, but only after consultation with the Instructor.

Class Policies:

1. There will be no make-up for missed quizzes. The two lowest grades will be dropped to achieve the highest grade possible.
2. Late Book Reports can be turned in no later than the next scheduled class after the due date.
3. A student's absence on a Book Talk day automatically results in the loss of five (5) points, or one half grade point.
4. A missed Midterm Exam can be made up on the day of the Final Exam, after consultation with the Instructor.
5. Any student found in violation of San Francisco State University's honor code is subject to automatic dismissal from this class.
6. The Instructor will inform the students – via Blackboard – if she knows in advance that she will be absent for a scheduled class.
7. The Instructor reserves the right to change/amend the Class Syllabus for any reason and at anytime. Any change in the syllabus will be announced in class and on Blackboard.
